

ART AT KASAM NEWSLETTER APRIL 2017

Lucy Mytton Volunteer with Seb's Project India

Running art workshops through poor communities in and around Vellore and the tribal schools in Jawadhi hills.

On Mondays I have been working with Kings School at Kasam. Class 6A and class 6B have been involved in some exciting, one off-workshops, exploring new and different materials and techniques. It has been important to work with the same group of students, to be able to see the progress and to build up a rapport.

The students have worked as a group and independently. Exploring and experimenting inside and outside the classroom environment. By experimenting with different ideas, I hope each child can enjoy being creative and have fun.

Here are some fun workshops the students have been involved in.. Snake making, paper chains, nature rubbings, collages, games, drawing to music and more. Some of the students live in the boys hostel next to the school.

A group of boys from classes 5 to 8 are currently brightening up the walls in the hostel, through a graffiti and mural project. They have come up with the design ideas themselves and have really flourished with creativity. The boys have nearly finished their designs.

I look forward to bringing more exciting workshops to Kasam in June.
Happy summer holidays!!
